It's hard to believe Mouse On Mars have been releasing music for over a decade: outlasting, outstepping, and outgrowing techno, post-rock, glitch-hop, or whatever term some British journalist made trendy for a few weeks. Their studio sound has become intricate and their live sound has always been an incredible release. The time spent with Andi and Jan was precious as they've got a lot to say and are fun people to be around. (Watch closely for the Hrvatski phone call.)
