

Brainwashed - Well, you asked for it...

Written by Jon Whitney
Tuesday, 23 May 2006 06:59 -

---

in answer to your Newslash's questions -

what do I think: that Brainwashed is a delight to visit - hosting many of my favourite artists' sites and archives - providing a connection between some artists that, previously, hadn't been apparent to me (apart from them sitting alongside each other on my shelf). To be honest, I haven't used Brainwashed Radio as I have so much to listen to from my regular purchases anyway. But most everything else on your site comes through my modem - I use it mainly for the news and 'artists and archives', but also love The Eye.

what do I want: if possible, an expansion of The Eye - I feel that 'music television' has so much potential, but is uninspiring 99% of the time - The Eye demonstrates the insightful results that can be achieved on a low budget; it doesn't need higher production values. BUT, I just want more (!): more interviews, concert footage, films made by the artists themselves (hey, why not loan them a camera for a week), invited collaborative sessions, guided tours of recording studios...

Excellent suggestions. We've been wanting to do these things too. Look for something along these lines soon.