Legendary percussionist and friend Z'EV was seriously injured on March 14th when an Amtrak train he was on derailed. Due to his pre-existing health conditions, the additional trauma from the accident has left him in an intensive care unit and he has yet to regain consciousness. With his family unavailable, a Gofundme page has been set up to help his close friend Barbara Barg to visit and watch over him while he is in the hospital, with the remainder of the donations going to help with his medical bills.
